Community Van

Stories from the Driver's Seat

We are excited to share stories from our friends and neighbors who utilize Community Van!

Trayton Michutka uses Community Van to help fill a gap in his family's transportation needs. He and his wife live in a condo and drive an older model Nissan LEAF, an electric vehicle that relies on a battery. Without a home option for charging, and with the car being an older model, they're not able to exceed a distance of roughly 30 miles, even on a full charge. Trayton has family that live beyond that 30-mile threshold in an area not serviced by public transportation. Community Van is the perfect solution for visiting his family.

Recently, Trayton used Community Van to create a birthday adventure for his father-in-law's birthday, filling the van with family and heading to Seattle for a day of sightseeing. They visited the Seattle Aquarium and waterfront, the Pike Place Market, and Beacon Hill. "We had a blast, and it literally would not have been possible without the Community Van," Trayton said. For Trayton, becoming a volunteer driver was easy, and using the van is a convenient way to meet the needs of his family. As a volunteer, he is eligible to serve as a driver to anyone who needs a lift but is not obligated to fulfill trip requests.

Community Van is a flexible, innovative transit option run by the City of Algona & Pacific & King County Metro. You can take advantage of Community Van's (2) electric vehicles and 6-passenger van (wheelchair accessible) for trips to the airport, appointments, errands, or other outings!
